TERMS OF REFERENCE

3. Scope of works/Technical specifications

The purpose of this Terms of Reference is to appoint a service provider for the development of a National Building Energy Performance Register (NBEPR) a database and web platform for capturing buildings and energy performance certificates in South Africa, including preliminary functional and technical specifications for the register.

3.1 BACKGROUND

The Minister of Mineral Resources and Energy has, under section 19(1)(b) of the National Energy Act, 1998, has promulgated the Regulations for the Mandatory Display and Submission of Energy Performance Certificates (EPC) for Buildings on 08 December 2020. EPCs are now mandatory for private sector, non-residential buildings with a total net floor area of over 2000m² for privately owned buildings, and government owned or occupied buildings of over 1000 m² sqm. EPC must be displayed at the building's main entrance; and must be submitted to the South African National Energy Development Institute (SANEDI).

SANEDI must maintain a National Building Energy Performance Register (NBEPR), which must include the particulars of all buildings that fall within the regulated classification as well as relevant energy performance certificate data. As a result, it is important that SANEDI deploys a NBEPR that can serve as a register and data repository of all buildings within the Regulations' classification in South Africa. The government wishes for building owners who fall within the requirements and identified occupancy classes to be able to register their buildings on the NBEPR platform regardless of whether they are pursuing an EPC in the immediate future or not. This provides government the ability to track progress towards compliance with the national EPC Regulations.

To facilitate this and to ensure the accuracy of the underlying EPC calculations undertaken in line with the South African National Standard for EPCs (SANS 1544:2014), building owners/accounting officers will be required to upload the constituent EPC data into the NBEPR. The NBEPR will increasingly provide an invaluable source of information for assessing and informing policy on energy efficiency and carbon emissions and footprint of the private and public sector building stock that fall within EPC regulations classification.

To ensure the successful implementation of an energy performance certification mechanism in South Africa, the NBEPR must account for the needs of its key stakeholder groups, namely, the Department of Mineral Resources and Energy (DMRE), SANEDI, building owners, accounting officers, SANAS accredited Inspection Bodies and other relevant government bodies.

3.2 OBJECTIVES OF NBEPR

The overall objective of NBEPR is to: Develop and deploy a central web platform for buildings registration that host all valid building Energy Performance Certificates issued in terms of the Regulations, as well as the verified data used to calculate the EPC-rating.

3.3 TECHNICAL REQUIREMENTS FOR DEVELOPMENT & DEPLOYMENT

The technical requirements of the NBEPR are stated within this section, providing detailed description of the required functionality of the NBEPR. The NBEPR shall be developed primarily to address the needs of users and system administrator (SANEDI).

TERMS OF REFERENCE

The successful bidder is required to carry out the following tasks:

- 3.3.1 Develop a user-friendly NBEPR database and web platform that will serve as a source of buildings registration, issued EPCs and application information for all its users (DMRE, SANEDI, building owners, Inspection bodies and other relevant parties). The design and style of the NBEPR should incorporate both SANEDI and the DMREs corporate Identities. The web portal should accommodate building owners (private & public), SANAS Accredited IBs, SANEDI and the DMRE. The portal should be linked to each other through the back end and should be able to handle all application requests with automated responses. 50 working days.
- 3.3.2 Deploy and test the NBEPR to meet user requirements, functionality, usability, security, compatibility, and performance. The NBEPR should be able to automatically issue new ones for new registration to avoid duplications. 30 working days.
- 3.3.3 Migrate the already existing MS. Excel-based BEPR onto the newly deployed NBEPR. The current data on excel sheet should be accurately loaded and integrated into the new NBEPR. It should be noted that the developed NBEPR should be able to register buildings with existing EPCs, and to read already existing EPC utilising the Standardised certificate based on SANAS 1544:2014. 10 working days.
- 3.3.4 Provide Training to 15 officials in a minimum of 5 days. In addition, develop a Standard Operating Procedure manual on the NBEPR for core SANEDI and DMRE officials administering the system and in accordance with their respective functional requirements.
- 3.3.5 Provide support and maintenance for the system for a period of 72 months.

Note: Where possible, adjust the above specified task duration in your planning. Some tasks can be carried out in parallel, and others may require task dependencies completed first. Fast tracking the project task to achieve shorter duration than 4 months is encouraged if the quality of the system is not compromised in the process.

3.4 USER NEEDS

The minimum user needs is based on the minimum functional requirements to be determined during system development. This is merely an indication of the system portfolios that needs to be developed and not the ownership within the NBEPR system. To meet the user needs of the main stakeholder groups which include i) access to the platform for building owners, building registration, ii) access to register buildings and upload EPC data into the database and iii) access to the back end for administrative purpose. The key users of the NBEPR includes relevant DMRE, SANEDI officials, building owners, SANAS EPC Inspection Bodies and other relevant individuals/entities.

3.5 MINIMUM FUNCTIONAL REQUIREMENTS

Table 1 below illustrates the minimum functional requirements to meet user needs. A link between each functional requirements is needed to meet user needs, and the corresponding technical

3.6 NBEPR NON-FUNCTIONAL REQUIREMENTS

TERMS OF REFERENCE

In addition to meeting the above discussed functional requirements, the NBEPR will need to meet several non-functional requirements to ensure that it provides a robust, stable, accessible, and effective platform. However, the main categories of non-functional requirements of the NBEPR include:

- Architectural goals and constraints – require for the overall architecture of the system to provide a highly available and user-friendly web portal for NBEPR users, and to understand what programs and services are available.
- Guiding principles – requires that the system is scalable, flexible, standards-based.
- User Experience (UX) and User Interface (UI) design patterns – requires a deep understanding of user needs, abilities, and limitations to ensure users can effectively interact with the system. Existing design pattern catalogues should be used for the design of the NBEPR.
- Design principles – requires for the system to work with a range of modern browsers that support HTML, DHTML, CSS, JavaScript, and XML and for business rules to be encoded within the application development framework.
- Accessibility for people with disabilities – requires for the design and function of the system to include principles that provides access to people with disabilities.

3.7 DATABASE DESIGN

The design of a fully functional NBEPR is crucial. Ensuring the database is built in such a way as to allow for accurate and up-to-date information to be transferred to relevant components and users of the NBEPR is critical.

3.7.1 Data governance and policies

The NBEPR should be aligned to the Protection of Personal Information Act (POPIA), which is like the EU GDPR which enforces strict measures on collecting, processing, and sharing personal and business information e.g., ID numbers, names, addresses, account numbers etc. NBEPR must be transparent and accountable when handling personal information—ensuring that users have the right to access personal information that was collected. In addition, the NBEPR will be governed by SANEDI's current IT policies and standards like ITIL, COBIT and other international IT best practices.

3.7.2 Content list

The content list about building and EPC information should be available on the NBEPR. The content is listed as per the relevance for specific user groups and their interaction with the NBEPR. This will be further elaborated during the specification development process.

The following is an example of what should be included in the list:

- EPC related content
- FAQ

TERMS OF REFERENCE

4 Evaluation Criteria

The proposals will be evaluated in two phases:

Phase 1: Technical Evaluation
