3. SCOPE OF WORKS / TECHNICAL SPECIFICATIONS

Project Background

Climate change, which is predominately fuelled by high levels of greenhouse gas (GHG) in the atmosphere, has been on the global agenda for the past few decades. Various programmes have been initiated since the dawn of climate change discourse, inter alia, include increasing the participation of renewable energy, reducing the world's reliance on fossil fuels (i.e. coal, crude oil and natural gas), promoting energy efficiency and increasing the contribution of nuclear energy. Reduction of fossil fuels' contribution will however impede economic growth of most developing countries since majority are well endowed with fossil fuels deposits. Consequently, these countries will struggle to alleviate poverty – which tops their priority list. It is therefore imperative to employ a technology that will address both economic growth and climate change.

Global carbon dioxide (CO_2) emissions are currently 36 billion tonnes of CO_2 per year. The bulk of these CO_2 emissions are produced by the electricity generation sector, which is responsible for about 50% of emissions. The balance is largely contributed by the combustion of fossil fuels in the transport and industrial sectors. The introduction of and support for a non-fossil-based, renewable and carbon-neutral fuel supply for non-electricity generation sectors would therefore significantly contribute towards reaching climate goals. According to a 2009 International Energy Information Administration (IEIA) study, South Africa emits 435 Million tonnes of CO_2 equivalent (CO_2 e), making it the 12^{th} highest emitter globally. The latest estimate from the Air Quality Management Unit of the Department of Environmental Affairs (DEA), South Africa, reported that the country produced 511 Million tonnes CO_2 e in 2012. This means the country contributes 1.49% of global emissions from 0.7% of the global population. The electricity generation sector is responsible for 45% of these emissions and the rest are attributed to industry, agriculture and others like transport, residential and waste sector. The transport sector in South Africa emits approximately 46.3Mt CO_2 (13.1% of South Africa's total emissions). Thus the case for the development of a non-fossil-based fuel for use in the transport sector is clearly a strong one.

There are fortunately several GHG emissions abatement tools that have been discovered thus far; of which Carbon Capture and Storage (CCS) is one of them. The technology has an ability to store large quantities of CO₂ within suitable geological formations, and concurrently offer an opportunity to the developing countries to utilise fossil fuels to eradicate energy poverty without releasing high level of CO₂ to the atmosphere. The technology further provides energy security whilst the world is transitioning to a less carbon economy, which will be driven by renewables and nuclear energy. Moreover, the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) has found that existing climate models cannot meet emissions reduction targets without CCS. Further to this, the cost of mitigation would double without CCS. The International Energy Agency (IEA) has stated that reaching the emissions reduction targets consistent with 450ppm would be 70% more expensive if CCS is omitted from the mitigation portfolio. It is now widely accepted that CCS is going to be part of any successful and cost effective mitigation portfolio.

South Africa has been collaborating with other states on a fight against climate change. During the Conference of Parties (CoP) in Copenhagen, Denmark in 2009 for instance, the South African government pledged to reduce its' total CO₂ emissions by 34% and 42% by 2020 and 2025 respectively. Since the inception of climate change discourses, South African government together with other pertinent stakeholders has been embarking on various mitigation strategies – including the implementation of CCS. The country commenced by establishing the South African Centre for Carbon Capture and Storage (SACCCS) in 2009 in order to work towards achieving the aforesaid targets. SACCCS is a division of South African National Energy Development Institute (SANEDI), and was initiated to focus mainly on conducting CCS research and development activities in South Africa. Ever since South Africa has achieved several milestones, viz. CCS has been identified as a National Flagship Priority Programme and the CCS roadmap was endorsed by Cabinet. The CCS Roadmap comprises five milestones, which are depicted in figure 1 below.

As shown in figure 1 above, the first two phases have been completed – i.e. CCS potential and South African CO_2 storage Geological Atlas. The latter discovered that 98% of South Africa's CO_2 storage capacity is found offshore. Currently SACCCS is working on the third phase of the roadmap, i.e. the Pilot CO_2 Storage Project (PCSP), which is designed to act as a proof of concept and will demonstrate the suitability of South African geology for CO_2 storage. The decision to undertake the PCSP on-shore was prompted by factors like cost minimisation and accessibility to the facility amongst others, which are pivotal to the ongoing capacity building programme. The last two stages of the roadmap, i.e. demonstration plant and commercial operations, will commence after the PCSP.

Project objectives

The implementation of CCS in South Africa will require the participation of industry as well as all sectors of the economy. It is with this in mind that this project is being initiated to carry out a survey to determine the implementation requirements of CCS technology for the South African Industry. The outcomes of this initiative will be useful in the implementation of CCS in South Africa. The aim of this project is to:

- a) Identify all possible requirements that South African Industry might need for the implementation of CCS in South Africa.
- b) Identify existing perceptions about various aspects of CCS and barriers of implementing the technology.
- c) Identify incentives that will encourage industry participation and
- d) Identify any other issues deemed necessary for the successful implementation of CCS in South Africa.

Scope of work

The project must consider the following (and related) factors:

- a) Entire CCS value chain, viz. CO₂ capturing, transportation, injection of CO₂, Storage of CO₂ and monitoring of stored CO₂;
- b) Rights to access property as well as surface and subsurface rights for operators conducting injection/exploration;
- c) Environmental health and safety impacts;
- d) Monitoring and verification of storage sites and storage formations;
- e) Industry's perceived risks of implementing CCS;
- f) Mechanisms of promoting CCS uptake;
- g) Conditions required for the possible deployment and operation of CCS;
- h) Liability and post-closure responsibilities for CCS activities; and
- i) International best practices relating to CCS.

The scope of work can be divided into the following work packages.

Work Package 1: Identification of all possible requirements that South African Industry need to participate in the implementation of CCS.

- a) In consultation with SANEDI, identify the key stakeholders and industries, and thereafter conduct a survey aimed at investigating what could be required from them during the implementation of CCS in South Africa.
- b) Analyse each requirement identified and thereafter develop recommendations on how they can be addressed.

Work Package 2: Workshop with interested and affected stakeholders.

- a) Invite all relevant stakeholders
- b) Circulate a workshop briefing document two weeks before the workshop
- c) Organise a workshop venue (SANEDI premises can be made available)
- d) Hold workshop and ensure participation from all stakeholders
- e) Compile a report with all workshop inputs and outputs
- f) Circulate workshop report to all participants

Work Package 3: Project Management

The project shall be managed through a Project Steering Committee (PSC) composed of members including:

- a) A representative of SANEDI/SACCCS;
- b) Up to three representatives from the SANEDI/SACCCS identified stakeholder pool;
- c) Other persons may be invited by SACCCS/SANEDI as and when deemed appropriate; and
- d) SACCCS/SANEDI shall chair the progress meetings.

The Steering Committee shall meet as follows:

- a) Inception Meeting to initiate the Project and agree on specific details;
- b) Thereafter, progress meetings on a monthly basis.
- c) A final closure meeting after completed report submission.

Work Package 4: Administration

- a) Record written minutes of each Project Steering Committee
- b) Circulation of the minutes within five working days of the meeting
- c) Progress reports to be addressed at progress meetings
- d) Progress reports submitted at least three days before a progress meeting

Expected outputs

- a) Regular recorded progress meetings with the project steering committee (PSC)
- b) Draft reports on each work package (WP) during progression, for inputs from the PSC and other stakeholders deemed relevant/necessary by SANEDI/SACCCS
- c) Final report containing the complete study (all WPs)
- d) Five hard copies (laid out, bound and printed)
- e) Two electronic copies (editable Word version and PDF print layout)
- f) Presentations to SACCCS, PCSP SC and others as required

Schedule

The project shall be executed within six months from the last date of signature to the contract. Any deviations from this will need written motivation to the PSC and SANEDI Board for approval.
